By WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE.

Paris, March 26 .- In the week's gloom which is enveloping the Peace Conference, it is continually more obvious that Moscow, not Proposes Steering Commit- Berlin, has focused the attention of the leaders. Lenine has displaced Wilson as director of the conference. The fear of revolution wiping out the score of allied victory is acute. The ribald threat of the winter is becoming the real menace of spring.

Leadership in England and America is seriously considering terms upon which proposals of peace may be made to Lenine. The United States has tried to save Germany from Jenine by sending food. But food failed to arrive in Hungary in time and Hungary joined the Bolsheviks. And Austria and Germany are unquestionably alarmingly hungry, and American strikes seem to be keeping back food.

Allied financial experts are $15-000,000,000 apart on the estimated figures of Germany's ability to pay, and their disagreement is holding back peace. One set of experts claims that Germany can pay $30-000,000 of the $200,000,000,000 is the maximum. It is not the league of nations that is holding back peace, but fear among the allies to make public the small reparation Germany will be asked to pay.
